DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

Correspondence of the Wilson North Carolinian

LETTER FROM GEORGIA.

Gaston, his Character—Judge Ruffin—Removing the Market House—Exciting Times—A Retreat—Doubtful Statement.

MACON, GA., Nov. 20, 1867.

"Who is that noble old gentleman over the way, just now running and romping with those little children? There is something about him so benign and commanding, yet so truly cordial and pleasant, that I am anxious to learn his name."

"That, sir, is Judge Gaston. All the children love him, and he never seems so happy as when surrounded by a group, tugging at him and asking him all sorts of questions. Let him be ever so much engrossed with his high duties, a genial smile will light up his features if addressed by the children."

But though he was a "good man and a great Judge," his great age warned us that he must ere long quit the shores of time.—And when the sad announcement was made that "Judge Gaston is dead," it was as if the entire population had individually been bereaved. The Judge went from his office on the corner to the Supreme Court room in tolerable health—he returned to his home never to leave it alive.

Perhaps no man ever enjoyed more fully the confidence of those who knew him, than he did. He was true to his friends—enemies he had none. So strong was the public confidence in his integrity, that though in religion he was a Catholic he was unanimously elevated to the chief justiceship of the Supreme Court of the State.

In all the relations of life this eminent Jurist was a model. As a son, he was ever dutiful and obedient. He loved his mother with an almost idolatrous love. Upon graduating at College he was asked if he did not rejoice at being successful. "Oh yes," said he; "but I shall rejoice more when I can tell my mother of my good fortune." As a representative in the Federal Congress, he was ever mindful of the interests of those who sent him there. As a Judge, he was capable and just. His opinions are patterns of clear reasoning and profound learning. As a citizen, plain and unostentatious, he was easy of approach. With Judge B——he could delve into the mysterious intricacies of the law; with the Rev. C—— he could travel the paths of Theology; and with the tender little boy he could jump the rope or assist in spelling rat, cat, dog, pig or bay. He could be "grave or gay, lively or severe," and none could excel him in the part he took.

I believe his remains were carried to Newbern to be placed in the family vault.

"Yet died he not as men who sink,
Before our eyes to soulless clay;
But, changed to spirit, like a wink
Of summer lightning, passed away.
Weep, children o' Israel, weep."

Judge Ruffin, of Orange county, succeeded to the office of Chief Justice on the death of Judge Gaston. He held the position for a number of years, and was a fit successor to so illustrious a man as him in whose place he was called to stand.

Leaving, for a time, the Bench, let me glance at other matters, smacking not quite so much of law.

It was somewhere in 1841 or 1842 that a difficult question was submitted to the free and enlightened voters of Raleigh, to-wit: the removal of the Market House. At that time the aforesaid house stood in that portion of a certain street known as "Grog Alley," and the inhabitants therein knew that if the market was taken away, much of their trade would go elsewhere. They therefore resolved to resist its removal.—This place—Grog-Alley—was the Five Points of the city. The buildings were one-story shanties, old and dilapidated, and owned or occupied by as desperate a set of men as could be found in a day's ride. The canvass was short but exciting. Each party had in its employ a flier and a drummer. Every night the respective parties would tug along behind the belabored drum and its screeching associate, until they had thrown themselves outside a sufficient quantity of bust-head, and—out of sight of each other—to make them brag—then, oh! shade of Demosthenes! what speeches, what eloquence they uttered. All at once some one would break the spell by yelling out—"Come boys! le's liquor!" Nuff sed. They always obeyed the invitation.

The crisis came at last, however. The ballot box spoke and its decision was in favor of removing the market. Elated at this, the New Market House party began a victorious march through the aforesaid Grog-Alley, accompanied by the inevitable fife and drum. This they knew was the bridge of Lodi. In the market building were congregated the defeated but not vanquished defenders of that odoriferous precinct. There was a halt. Who will lead us? "Follow me!" thundered a well-known voice in front. The columns met—"the combat thickened, on ye brave!" There was such crashing, and splashing; such hewing and cutting; such pulling of wool; such gouging out of eyes, and breaking of heads, as has never been seen since the days of old Peter Stuyvesant. Seeing how matters stood, I beat a retreat, and drank to the health and success of my party a good round number of old cognac. Somebody told me, a day or two after my return to the city, that my party cleared the other party out, but after diligent investigation I could find but few who could conscientiously corroborate his statement. But the market was moved and Grog Alley became a place where a man could go in daylight without having his throat cut or pocket look stolen. In due time the old liquor-soaked shanties were torn down, and neat little stores erected in their stead. Thus was swept out a disgrace to the city; but the credit belongs to those who had been made virgins in that which satisfieth not.

Yours, very truly,

Every day that there is the mockery of an election in any of the Southern States the telegraph announces that "the election is progressing quietly," thus unconsciously uttering a most biting sarcasm. In view of the fact that every poll is guarded by United States soldiers all armed cap-a-pie, what could be expected but quiet? On the other side, what a severe commentary is the presence of this same soldiery upon the Radical mode of reconstruction. So far as our memory serves us, there has not been in all the Southern States since they were placed under military rule a single instance of disturbance of the peace that was not caused by negroes. Possibly they were not wholly guilty, since in more than one case it has been proven that they were incited to disorderly conduct by their pretended Radical friends. All the letters which we have printed, all the accounts which we have seen, concur in the statement that the white population are anxious for the preservation of perfect peace; in fact, were they otherwise disposed—as they are not—they know that any outbreak, however slight, that can possibly be attributed to them will be hailed with joy by the Northern Radicals, and seized upon as a pretext for fresh legislation of increased severity towards the Southern whites.—N. Y. World.

UNIVERSAL NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

We assumed, in our article of Saturday, that the investment of all negro males in the Union, twenty-one years of age and upwards, with the elective franchise, was a thing so anomalous, and created so wide a breach upon the customs and laws of all civilized nations, that the reasons for such action must be of so demonstrative and overwhelming a character, as to admit of no doubt as to the justice and the absolute necessity of the procedure. No honest, sensible man will question this position.

We have shown that the people in the Northern States were fully justified, in their late elections, in refusing to confer upon the negroes, as a race, the elective franchise.—But if the negroes are entitled to this franchise as a right per se, consequent upon their admission to freedom; if it be due to them as a matter of simple justice, in order to the protection of their freedom or for any other reason, then it is plain that the Northern people have been guilty of a great moral wrong, in refusing this boon to them for lo! these many years. If their refusal is based upon a mere prejudice, or proceeds from caprice or partizan purposes, or any mere motive of worldly policy, then their conduct amounts to a high crime, not only against that race, but against society and against God.

But the course of the Northern people, in this regard, is fully justified, because the blacks cannot claim it as a matter of right, nor can it be claimed for them as a matter of grace or favor from the State, for the reason that the unfitness of the race, as a governing class, is palpable and undeniable. They are justified, further, for the reason that, being unfit as a race to exercise the higher functions of citizenship, they cannot claim it as a matter of right, or of grace, because, in their condition, the rights of the white race would be thereby invaded, and the protection of society and of the State rendered less secure.

If there be any force in this reasoning, and we feel sure we can demonstrate its correctness, how, in the name of humanity, of reason, of right and of justice, can Congress and the Radical party be justified before the world, in the purpose to force negro suffrage upon the unwilling South by military power? The criminality and injustice of the act become more palpable, when it is seen, that Congress not only forces it upon the South by bayonets, but, to insure its success, commits the unheard of outrage upon civilization and upon the States, of conferring upon the negroes themselves the very franchise in question, which it professedly seeks to ask the hitherto governing class to confer upon them!

But if the Northern people are justified in refusing unqualified suffrage to the negro race, because of their unfitness and because of the damage which would thereby accrue to society, notwithstanding their long enjoyment of freedom there, surrounded, as they have been, by the appliances of education and improvement, what man can stand forth in open daylight, and demand the elective franchise for all the male negroes in the South, who have just emerged from the cruel bondage charged upon Southern slaveholders by the pseudo-philanthropists? Do not such wild negro equality propagandists, by setting up such a claim for the Southern negroes, furnish the strongest argument which has yet been produced, for the continuance of Southern slavery?

We have long known and believed that Southern slavery was a great blessing to the negro, though it has proved a great curse to the Southern white race. But never until now were we willing to admit or believe, that Southern slavery had been a far more effective educator and civilizer of the African race, than Northern freedom has been.

But the question recurs: Are the Southern negroes, or their friends, justified in claiming for the male portion of the negro race the elective franchise, either as a matter of right or of favor from the State. If it can be shown to be right and just, then we are estopped, and yield the point at once. To establish their claim as a right, it must be shown, first, that the great rule of right and wrong, the law of God, demands it.—No one will claim that God has expressly enacted any such law. Nor can we safely infer any such law, unless it can be clearly shown, first, that the negro race in the South is capable of exercising the elective franchise, wisely and safely for society, and, secondly, that the granting of such franchise to the negro race would work no evil or injustice to the white race, or injury to the State. For a thing cannot be right or just in a State, which confers a benefit upon a new class of persons, which must necessarily work evil to the State or injury or injustice to an already endowed and worthy class.

It is, however, alleged, as one of the chief reasons for the action of Congress, that it is not claimed that the Southern negroes are entitled to this franchise, as a matter of right or because they are fit to exercise it, though we intend to educate them to it, but that Congress determines that the Southern States shall be restored to the Union on a loyal basis—that there are not enough loyal whites to effect this object, and, therefore, as the blacks are all loyal, Congress, by a peculiar species of Radical legerdemain, passes over the whole negro race its magic wand, and presto! every negro male in the South, twenty-one years of age, becomes instanter capable of exercising the highest functions of citizenship! But we defy the whole tribe of Radicals to prove that either the negroes are loyal, or that the Southern whites are disloyal, to the government of the United States.

Loyalty or disloyalty cannot consist in mere sentiments or words; either must be shown or proven by acts. The highest act of loyalty which a man can exhibit, is the ready obedience which he renders both to the organic and statutory laws of the government, and his alacrity in supporting that government by the prompt payment of taxes levied upon him. Have the negroes of the South shown, since the close of the war, any such evidences of their loyalty? Have not the white people everywhere proven their fidelity to the government in these respects?

But it is charged upon the masses of the whites of the South, you are rebels. We deny it, flatly and emphatically. What we have been, rightfully and intrinsically, has nothing to do with this question. We may have been rebels, but the great masses of the Southern whites are not now rebels, nor have they been, since the close of the war. The constituted authority of the government, in the exercise of his legitimate powers, has granted a full pardon to nearly all who were claimed to be rebels. No power on earth or in the government can rightly or legitimately invalidate or revoke that pardon, except the individual himself by subsequent acts of rebellion. No such instances have occurred and no proper tribunal has adjudged any of us to be rebels now. He who charges it upon us, lamely and wickedly and falsely does so.

CONSERVATIVE STATE CONVENTION.

We hope the Conservatives all over the State will understand, that the proposed postponement of the Convention is not designed to discourage the calling of meetings in all the Counties and the appointment of delegates to a Conservative State Convention. We understand that all favor the appointment of delegates, and that they shall hold themselves in readiness to attend the Convention, whenever it may be called by the State Executive Committee. The demands of the future will determine the action necessary.

JOHNSTON COUNTY.—The following delegates have been appointed, by the Chairman of the late Conservative meeting in Johnston, to represent said county in the State Conservative Convention, whenever it shall assemble, viz:

Rev. J. F. Ellington, Sam'l. Horn, Henry Finch, J. W. Hodges, Amos Coates, J. P. Edmundson, Col. B. A. Woodall, B. Godwin, Maj. J. C. Exon, W. A. Adams, John Harper, E. Stevens, D. Smith, Charles Powell, L. B. Waddell, J. H. Abel, E. S. Moore, H. Lassiter, Dr. J. G. Rose, J. W. B. Watson, J. T. Pike, J. Foulk, J. E. Allen, A. M. Noble, Col. W. J. Clark, Dr. J. B. Beckwith, Dr. R. Hooker, J. Towne, E. S. Parker, J. A. Barnett, C. C. Preston, J. T. Ellington, J. W. Lee, J. R. Brown, Jas. Hare, J. Richardson, P. Godwin, K. B. Whitley, C. B. Sanders, Seth Woodall, J. W. Sharp.

A REMARKABLE BOOK.—Messrs. E. J. Hale & Son, 16 Murray St., New York, will publish, in a few days, "The Old Capitol and Its Inmates," by a Lady who enjoyed the hospitalities of the Government for a season. 12 mo., cloth, $150. Sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price.

The Editor of the Richmond Daily Dispatch, to whom the manuscript was submitted, says in that paper of November 13th:

"When we first read this little work we were at a loss to say whether it was fiction or fact. If fact, we reasoned to ourself, it was a most strange account of the treatment of the Federal Government to the female prisoners in the Old Capitol prison. If fiction, its authoress has rivalled De Foe in the happiest productions of his pen; for surely the wonderful adventures of Robinson Crusoe and his man Friday are not told with more verisimilitude than are these experiences of the young lady who enjoyed for a season the hospitalities of the Government" in the Old Capitol. Our doubts have been resolved by a friend of the writer, who informs us that the recital contained in these pages is not only fact, but that it falls below the fact as this lady witnessed it. The book has entranced us.—We read it with as eager interest as ever we turned over the pages of Scott or Bulwer. This last product of the cruel war through which we have just passed (not to say we are now passing) will, we predict, be among the most popular writings of the day. The book will shortly be published, and be in the reach of all who wish to know the truth, and nothing but the truth, in relation to the mode of treating female prisoners in Washington. There is a story of Mrs. Surratt; she appears in these pages as an angel of mercy. Could such a woman be a criminal?"

SOUTH CAROLINA.—The defeat of Convention in this State, for the want of the requisite majority to secure it, takes every one completely by surprise. The blacks have a registered plurality of at least two to one in the State, and the failure of the Congressional scheme is alone chargeable, therefore, to these pets of Congress. We shall see what comes of the matter.

MISSISSIPPI.—The vote in Mississippi on the question of a Convention is so very close, that the result is still in doubt. It is probably defeated, unless Radical manipulation saves it.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY of the Presbyterian Church is now in session at Nashville, Tenn. This is the Southern branch of the Church. The attendance of delegates is very large.

VISIT TO THE PRESIDENT.—James Vernon, Esq., delegate from the London Journeymen Tailor's Association, visited his Excellency the President yesterday, accompanied by several delegates of the association in Washington. Mr. Vernon, having paid his respects to his Excellency, announced the object of his visit to the United States, namely—for the purpose of collecting funds so as to enable the destitute members of the association in England, now on a strike since the 1st. of April last, to emigrate to this country.

The President received the deputation with his usual urbanity, and, after having made some very appropriate remarks, in which he alluded to the needle as the instrument par excellence of his former profession, he generously donated a large sum in aid of the laudable object of the gentleman's mission, and concluded by expressing his earnest desire that his commendable enterprise might be crowned with success.—National Intelligencer, 28th.

LETTERS OF AN ITINERANT.

CHARLOTTE, Nov. 27.

FOUNDRIES.

Charlotte is well supplied with iron moulders. The old Confederate Navy Yard was purchased some time since, and a very excellent Foundry established upon the premises, by Messrs. Martin and Wilkes.

Their programme covers the steam fixtures of engine building, machinery for mining, ploughs, etc.

Connected with this Foundry is an enterprise of rare merit. It is an Agricultural department under Mr. Grey Utley. The country knows Mr. Utley's qualifications. He is the inventor of the "Thirty Gun," which is fast retiring living watchmen at one dollar and a half a day. By a simple arrangement, a gun is set which will shoot four ways at once; and it shoots with the least possible erasing.

He is the inventor of an exceedingly efficient Straw Cutter, and is very popular at Wheat Fan.

Another Foundry is just getting started under the management of Tatum, Rooke and Culpepper. It, like the other, lies directly on the line of the N. C. R. R.

CORN.

One imagines himself in Charleston, as he witnesses the commotion among the cotton traders. Charlotte bids fair to become the most important cotton market in this State. Already from one hundred and twenty five to two hundred bales of the staple are brought in daily; and it all meets a ready sale. Good for the North Carolina Rail Road as well as Charlotte!

Indeed, by eleven o'clock A. M. every day, the produce wagons can hardly pass each other on the streets. They bring all sorts of goods, cotton especially.

ROCK ISLAND WOOLEN MILLS.

This excellent concern has received new life since I saw it a year ago. It is running up to its fullest capacity. Three thousand yards are now made per week; and there is a threat about the building of pushing up to five thousand yards. The best of all is every yard is sold. No better cassimere, jeans, etc. is wanted by our people. Every variety imaginable is furnished.

As an illustration of what machinery can be made to do, I stood and watched in astonishment the spinning department. There are a few long carriages travelling upon little rail ways, which run out (say) eight feet, with the thread; then it stops and does its twisting, and back again, winds up the twisted part, runs back again, twists and up again, with great ease and speed. Yet there are twenty two hundred threads twisted thus, by six men and six boys. These twelve persons do the work of twenty two hundred old ladies, with the old fashioned spinning wheel, and the work is done far better, smoother and neater, and regular and even, and of course cheaper.

Then again, here are about seventy five hands turning out from three to four thousand yards of fine cassimere and jeans per week, and every piece surpassing hand work in quality.

Among the many orders the "Mills" have, is a sort of standing order from Col. Bingham, for cloth for his Cadet uniform. Col. B. doubtless has two reasons for buying this goods; one is, it is made in N. C.; the other is, it is cheaper than any other he can get.

A NEW HAND LOOM.

I have this day examined the working of a new Hand Loom, that ought to be in every vicinity of the United States. It will weave, they say, from fifteen to thirty yards of cloth a day; and certainly does the work to perfection. It is made to change from one kind of weaving to another, with perfect ease. By simply turning a crank, it pays out the warp, winds the cloth, works the threads, and throws the shuttle. It can be worked with one hand, and that a half grown boy. It makes jeans, sattinets, linsey, blankets, ribbed goods, bagging, toweling, balmoral skirts, carpets, works wool, cotton, linen or hemp. It is small, neat, light. It is simple and easily worked.

It is not for sale. The owner forms companies in each State for making them. It was invented by a Mr. Mendenhall, a native of North Carolina. It is in the hands of J. H. McClintock.

This Hand Loom has the most flattering endorsements of some twenty members of the Alabama Legislature, and of Governor Walker. It has been introduced into some of the Southern Penitentiaries.

It certainly is simple, and very efficient, and looks very strong. I think it would be a blessing to almost any household. Were I in the market, I would be ready to be one of a stock company to secure the right and manufacture these looms for North Carolina.

THE PRECIOUS METAL.

Four gold mines are worked, in this county, on an extensive scale, and large quantities of dust are being produced.

To attempt to exhaust the mining interests of Mecklenburg county would be useless. It seems to be a vast mining district. Ores of various kinds are found at many points. Large amounts of capital are being invested in the development of metal; and it has become one of the chief items of the business of the county.

NEW WASHING MACHINE.

Yesterday a new washing machine made its appearance before the public of Charlotte. It is the invention of a Mr. Barnhardt, of Charlotte. It professes to be an improvement on Doty's, Elder's and all. Its performances were witnessed by a number of citizens and its result gave very great satisfaction. I can see plainly that the changes made from prior machines are very sensible. It was patented Oct. 15, 1867. It is a North Carolina invention, and is made in North Carolina, manufactured of North Carolina wood, and certainly ought to be used in washing North Carolina clothes.

THE CEMETERY.

A new Cemetery was started some time since, but as, thus far, made but moderate progress. It covers a very large space, and the ground is well suited for the purpose, affording a fine field for the arrangement of carriage ways and foot ways; that arrangement so peculiarly adapted to the resting place of the departed. When the plan shall have been developed, it will be one of the most elaborate burying places within my knowledge, in cities of the size of Charlotte.

Raleigh would lose nothing by an effort of a similar kind. The present "grave yard" is too small, and not sufficiently retired, for the purposes of burying the dead, in a place of its size. The Soldiers' Cemetery, of Raleigh, is truly a Memorial. It is consoling to those who have relatives there. It is an honor to the ladies. It is an expression of affection. It is the work of love. But two hundred acres ought to be bought, undulating land—and a handsome Cemetery laid off for the city.

ITINERANT.

MAXIMILIAN'S REMAINS.—Maximilian's remains could only be recognized by certain physical marks, peculiar to the Hapsburgs. They are contained in a handsome coffin, furnished by the Mexican government, and are securely fixed by means of blocks and braces covered with black silk velvet. The interior of the coffin is of white cedar, highly polished and varnished. The exterior is veneered with a dark red wood, called grandita, closely resembling rose wood, though not quite so dark, yet darker than mahogany. The design, though plain, is very tasteful and handsome. This coffin is to be placed in a leaden box and hermetically sealed, and this again in a wooden case.

THE NEW YORK PRESS ON THE IMPEACHMENT REPORT.

The following extracts from the great political dailies of New York furnish the last indication of public opinion in the North on the Radical movement against the President, and foreshadow the disposition that will finally be made of that matter.

The Tribune concludes an article on the subject with the following paragraph:

The whole question of impeachment must be considered not as party policy, but as national duty. Congress must enter into this investigation determined to shrink from none of its responsibilities. There is no law more plainly written than that which provides impeachment, and it is the only law that stands between the country and a dictatorship. We cannot impeach Mr. Johnson because he has left the Republican party. If he had been merely such a President as McClellan or Pendleton would have been, then impeachment is a political menace, and amounts to nothing. On the other hand, if the evidence warrants it, we must not refuse to proceed because, perchance, we may lessen our majorities at the next election.—Let there be no passion in the matter. The prescient we make will last for all time.—The Federal Executive office is necessary to the harmony of our system, and it must not be rudely assailed. We have not yet seen evidence enough to make up our mind in favor of impeachment, and we shall wait and see what new evidence has been obtained.

The World says:

Until it is disposed of by Congress in some way the impeachment will be a leading topic, as the trial of Jefferson Davis is every few months; but we suppose Mr. Johnson is in as little danger of losing his office by an impeachment as Mr. Davis is of losing his life by a trial. We do not mean to say that each is equally a farce in the intention of those engaged in it, for the prosecutors of Mr. Davis are not in earnest, and the impeachers of Mr. Johnson are; but in the final result one will amount to just as little as the other.

* * * * * *

It is a monstrous and mischievous farce; yet it may accomplish some good in facilitating the overthrow of the doomed Republican party.

The Herald says:

There is danger in it (impeachment) to the Republican party, which its thoughtful and cool-headed men will, if possible, avoid; for if Andrew Johnson's impeachment and removal be made a party test, the result will be a disruption of the party.—We have had this result foreshadowed in all these late elections; for this thing of impeachment, we repeat, was among the dead weights thereof which the Republican party had to carry.

From the Times article we take the following extract:

"The allegations on which Mr. Boutwell, as the mouthpiece of the majority, relies to justify the measure and insure its success, are merely a rehash of charges again and again preferred during the progress of the reconstruction controversy, and always for political effect. No striking accusation appears—no terse statement of fact that can arouse popular feeling and reconcile it to a formal arraignment of the Executive. "An unconstitutional usurpation of power" in the organization of State Government—a "denial of the right of Congress to control" reorganization—sins of omission and commission in connection with these positions. Such are the leading counts in the indictment presented by Mr. Boutwell, and a sorry exhibit they form as a groundwork of impeachment. If the partisan ingenuity can discover no offence more tangible than those here imputed, we may be quite sure that Mr. Johnson has but little to fear from the recommendation which has been reported."

The Commercial Advertiser says:

"The Ashley Boutwell Butler Impeachment Shell burst yesterday, and 'nobody is hurt.' The conclusion adopted by a majority of the Committee is wholly unwarranted by the testimony. The report submitted by Mr. Boutwell does not refer to a particle of testimony which brings the case up to the gravity of impeachment, and no man of sense—certainly no sensible lawyer—would, unless blinded by passion and prejudice, have thus exposed himself to the world's contemnation. The whole question, instead of being rushed through, as was expected, goes over till Wednesday of next week. By that time the people everywhere will have become weary of it, and Congress will be called upon to forego this fooling, and set themselves to work in reforming abuses, retrenching expenses and providing ways and means to pay the public debt."

The Post says:

As to the substance of the reports, we shall have something to say hereafter; but at present it does not seem to us that a very strong case has been made out by the majority. They may convict the President of enormous errors of judgment, or precipitate careless action, of the assumption of questionable powers, and of other highly improper conduct; but for some of his doings he may plead according, to General Grant and Secretary Stanton's testimony, the initiatory example of President Lincoln, which was never formally disapproved; and for much of the rest that it was rather a political than legal offence. For the Committee, however, to carry their case, and particularly to get the sanction of the public, it is necessary to show that the malfeasances imputed to the President are not bad opinions only, not misjudgments, not a determination to resist the action of Congress, which he might deem unconstitutional to the extremity of his powers, but positive acts, constituting "high crimes and misdemeanors," which are legal terms, implying a wilful disregard of a known public law, by the omission or commission of some deed which it enjoins or forbids.

The Express says:

Never was a "sounding manifesto" rounded off with so lame and impotent a conclusion. There is nothing, absolutely nothing, in the allegations heaped upon the Executive to furnish a peg upon which his enemies can arraign him for "high crimes and misdemeanors."

The Journal of Commerce says:

We do not believe that Mr. Johnson will be impeached, although there are many of his opponents in Congress who are vindictive enough to put him upon trial at any cost to the country. But it is a matter of painful regret that partisan feeling is allowed such sway as is seen in the presentation of this report to the national Congress.—There is no pretence in this document that the President has been guilty of any indictable offence for which a private citizen could be legally punished. The gravest charge against him is that assumption of power for which the favorites of the extremest Radicals have been and still are most vehemently applauded. The whole movement is designed solely for political effect, and is a party dodge of the most disreputable and dangerous character; the perseverance of those engaged in it is exciting the disgust of decent men throughout the country. If sustained by the requisite vote in the House, it will be a precedent far more dangerous to free institutions than any hitherto established.

AS WE EXPECTED.

In our last we mentioned the contemptible trick played upon the Conservatives of this section, by withholding from the public the hand-bill, from some quarter, instructing the people that the words "Convention and Delegates" were to be endorsed on their tickets. We feared there was an infamous trick in it, at the time, and so it turned out.

At the Swannanoa box—and at how many others we know not—it was carried into effect, by Mr. J. C. Stewart, one of the Registrars, taking the trouble to go there, about noon of the first day of election, and informing the managers that all votes not having that endorsement on should not be counted; consequently, a number of votes which had been cast for the Conservative candidates were not counted, and a number, who had not voted, became disgusted and would not vote at all.

Our esteemed friend, Rev. Thos. Stradley, who had registered, was informed, by that beautiful specimen of Southern loyalty who received the tickets at this box, and who had been one of the Registrars, that his name was erased. Of course Mr. S. asked the cause, and after many questions and answers, the cause was narrowed down to the fact that the Rev. Mr. Stradley had prayed for the Confederate States during the war. Mr. Stradley is an Englishman by birth, and one of the purest men in the country. He never sought office during the war, but he had incurred the displeasure of one of the Registrars.

In Henderson, a friend writes us: "I have heard of only one colored man who voted the conservative ticket, and it is reported he was followed up by the Leaguers and taken back to the polls, and required to take out his ticket and put in a Radical one."

The same correspondent says: "The man, Jesse Rhoads, of Polk County, so greatly puffed in the Raleigh Standard, and I suppose elected to the convention, cannot write his name, nor read it after it is written. A correspondent of that delectable sheet says of him, "there is no more suitable man for the convention in the two counties." That speaks well for the home of Gen. Logan, Harris and other "eminent men."—Asheville News.

THE NEW YORK Herald thus speculates on the coming political events, which have "cast their shadows before:"

"The radical programme for the succession has collapsed. The eleven rebel States, including Tennessee, reconstructed on the basis of negro supremacy, will doubtless all be hurried up and hurried into Congress in season for the Presidential election, and they will all be radical States. But they will not be sufficient to save the radical faction. On the programme of universal negro suffrage, and on Mr. Chase's ultimatum of gold for the bondholders and national bank rag for the people, the popular reaction developed in Ohio and New York will sweep, next November, the Central States and the West as a fire sweeps over the prairies. From the signs in the heavens and the earth Massachusetts and Vermont will, perhaps, be left as the only remaining monuments of rad-calism in the mighty North. These two, with the eleven unreconstructed States of the South, will probably constitute the opposition to the new administration and the new Union party in power from and after the 4th of March, 1869.

General Grant, upon his own broad and ample Union platform, will serve for the accomplishment of those great ends; but we doubt whether even General Grant on the Radical platform could ride the popular whirlwind that is brewing on the all-absorbing money question. The national debt, our burdens of taxation, our budget of official corruptions, prodigalities, frauds and spoils and plunder, are now foremost in the popular mind. The rebellion, with all its horrors, no longer holds the foreground in the public eye, but this mountain of debt, taxes and corruptions stands forth in the boldest relief. In its presence this farce of impeachment becomes a mockery, universal negro suffrage a delusion, and Southern negro supremacy an outrage which will serve to swell the uprising of the indignant North for what Kossuth would call "the solidarity of the people and their imprescriptible rights."

Valuable Plantation for Sale.

ON FRIDAY, THE 6TH DAY OF DECEMBER, I will offer at public sale that Valuable Plantation on which Col. J. W. Steele resides; lying in Alamance County, two and a-half miles Southwest from Mebaneaville Depot.

The location is very desirable, being convenient to Col Bingham's School, also to Dr. Wilson's School, and within half a mile of Hawfield Church.

The buildings are pleasantly located—the dwelling house has six rooms, four below, with wide and airy passage, and two above, and a fireplace in every room. There is an excellent well of water in the yard, near the house and kitchen, also two kitchens, smoke house, an office with two rooms, and, in fact, all the conveniences desired.

The plantation contains 467 acres, about 200, or more, of which is well timbered with original growth of oak and hickory, and WELL WATERED.

It was originally in two tracts, and there are two separate sets of buildings, one on each plantation, half a mile apart, and if desired they will be sold separately.

A credit of 6 and 12 months will be given.

Raleigh Thespian Association: Tucker Hall, this evening.

DEBUT OF THE THESPIANS.—Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, on Friday night, quite a large and a very select audience were in attendance at Tucker Hall, to greet the first appearance of the Thespian Association. The young gentlemen composing it have reason to congratulate themselves upon a brilliant success. On all sides we have heard the highest encomiums upon the manner in which one and all acquitted themselves. Indeed, persons who have seen the drama of Rip Van Winkle rendered upon the boards of some of the best theatres in the country pronounce this amateur rendition scarcely inferior to any they have witnessed.

Maj. B. C. Manly, as the leading persona dramatis, Old Rip himself, sustained the role to perfection. His conception of the character was not only very fine in itself, but it was executed in a manner that frequently brought down the house. Mr. R. C. Badger, as Knickerbocker, entered fully and excellently into the spirit of the play and the occasion, and the matrimonial passages at arms, particularly, with Mrs. K., nee Alice, (admirably impersonated by W. E. Pell, Jr.) were inimitable and mirth provoking. Capt. W. H. Harrison, as Herman Van Slaus, the decidedly reprobate son of the Burgomaster, displayed a high quality of histrionic talent. His declamation is of the first order and his appreciation of character good. Mr. A. P. Bryan acquitted himself exceedingly well as the Burgomaster. Mr. Chas. McKimmon, as the shrewish old virago, Dame Van Winkle, was one of the best features in the play, and our young friend illustrated it in a way that excited commiseration for the connubial status of old Rip. Mr. Busbee, as Vedder; Messrs. Hall, A. McKimmon, E. S. Badger, Nolan and Heartt, in their respective roles; Mr. C. M. Busbee, as Gustafle; Mr. Thos. Badger, as the Judge, and Mr. Maguire, as Seth Slough, all sustained themselves creditably. Master Weston Gales performed his part as the child Lorenna in a very graceful and becoming manner, and Mr. G. H. Snow, as the "grown up" Lorenna, was fully up to the spirit of the drama. The scene on the Catskills, where the spirits of the mountain invest old Rip, was highly grotesque, as well as impressive,—the scenery and costumes prepared for the occasion being striking and picturesque. We may say, in general terms, of all the appliances of the stage, that they were both tasteful and appropriate.

The Farce of the Irish Tutor was a side splitter. Mr. Busbee made a capital Hibernian, and entered, in the person of Dr. O'Toole, fully into all the rollicking humor and waggery of the Irish character. Maj. Manly, as Dr. Pfaff, was excellent, as he is in everything of the sort he undertakes.—Mr. A. K. Sneeden, as Tilwell, was fatherly and dignified to perfection, and Mr. Harriss, as Charles, was harum-scarum enough for any of our modern youth. Mr. Snow did well, as in the first play, and we must say, of Master Sherwood Haywood, that we have seldom seen a boy exhibit a more intelligent and charming appreciation. He was one of the favorites of the evening.

The Thespians will repeat their programme this evening, when they will, without doubt, have a crowded house. We can suggest but one improvement in the management of the Hall, and that is a less densely packed arrangement of the chairs.

We should have added that the music on the occasion was good, and lent an additional attraction to the general pleasure of the occasion.

REV. T. S. KINGSBURY.—This gentleman, the Pastor of the Church in Warrenton, by invitation of the Deacons of the Raleigh Baptist Church, preached a Thanksgiving sermon in this City, on Thursday last. We had not the pleasure of hearing his discourse, but it is spoken of as having been admirably adapted to the occasion. Mr. Kingsbury is an accomplished scholar, and his productions are always finished. A gentleman, in whose judgement we have confidence, says that his sermon, on this occasion, was one of the finest efforts to which he has ever listened.

MUNICIPAL.—At the last regular meeting of the Board of Commissioners there were present:—Wm. D. Haywood, Esq., Mayor; Messrs. J. A. Moore, R. F. Cheatham, J. M. Betts, D. L. Royster, J. J. Overby, R. H. Battle and Parker Overby, Commissioners.

On motion, Mr. Joseph Jordan was released from his dray tax for 1866.

On motion of Mr. Betts, ordered: That the collector receive the taxes of Marcellus Ransom, free of the additional charge of advertising.

On motion, Mr. Cheatham was placed on the Committee, in the place of Mr. J. D. Royster, to settle accounts of the City officers.

Sundry accounts of City night watch were allowed, amounting to $308.75.

Sundry other accounts, to the amount of $1,102.20, were presented and allowed.

The following persons were refunded their license tax from the 1st of July last, viz:

J. B. Sugg	$28 12
A. N. Upchurch	28 12

H. Buffalon	28 12
J. D. Pleasants	46 87
C. M. Farries	28 12

Mr. Moore offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the City Treasurer be instructed to deposit with the Treasurer of the Young Men's Christian Association, of the City of Raleigh, three hundred and fifty dollars, being the amount of taxes levied and collected under General Orders No. 31, to be applied by said Association for the benefit of the poor of the City.

On motion, the City Constable was directed to give notice to T. McGee, Esq., N. C. Bookstore, J. G. Williams, Esq., A. Lougee, and Mrs. Marling's representatives, to repair their sidewalks.

WHAT THE COUNTRY NEEDS—A WHOLESOME CONFESSION.

[From the Evening Post of Monday.]

At this particular juncture it is not the cue of statesmen to declaim about national unity, which, in every legitimate sense, has been secured and established by a method from which there will be no appeal, and in every other sense means central aggrandizement. But it is a time to declaim and to act against the concentration of functions at Washington. Already, by a strain of the powers granted, and by the assumption of powers not granted, the centripetal force has become enormous. Already the whole country stagnates under a plethora of central legislation—a veritable congestion of the brain. What we want now is depletion; a reduction of offices, an economy of expenditure, a strict and rigid system of taxation, the stoppage of frauds, a contraction of the volume of the currency, a smaller army, and, in short, a return to the normal condition of things, which the grand and exorbitant, but necessary, demands of the war have deranged.

"SHODDY."—Under the name of "shoddy" an enormous weight of material is now used which once was waste. Shoddy was first brought into use about 1813 at Batley, near Dewsbury, England. "Mungo" was adopted in the same district, but at a later period. Shoddy is the produce of soft woolen rags, such as old worn-out carpets, flannels, guernseys, stockings, and similar fabrics.—Mungo is the produce of worn-out broad or similar cloths of the quality, and of the shreds and clippings of cloth. According to the Times, the Pollution of Rivers Commission, which has been visiting Yorkshire, was thus informed of the origin of the word "mungo": A manufacturer gave some of the materials to his foreman, who, after trial in the shoddy machines, came back with the remark, "It winna go;" when the master exclaimed, "But it mun go."—These old woolen rags are collected and imported from India, China, Egypt, Turkey, Russia, and, in fact, all parts of the world where woolen garments are worn. They come to Yorkshire from districts where plague, fever, small-pox, and loathsome skin diseases extensively prevail; they are sorted by human fingers when the bales are opened before being placed in machines which tear up, separate, and clean the fiber for manufacture; but the Pollution of Rivers Commission mention that fifty years' experience has proved that these rags are not in any degree dangerous to the health of those who work among them, although in many of the counties where they are collected they are believed to be peculiarly plague bearing materials. The lapse of time in collecting, sorting, and transmitting the rags, and the possible destruction of any special poison by friction or otherwise, must be taken into account.—The dirt, dust, and fine particles blown out by the machines are collected and sold for manure at from 10s. to 20s. per ton. The shoddy trade is a remarkable instance of the utilization of waste material. It forms nearly one-fifth in weight of the woolen and worsted manufacture of the West Riding.—Mixed with wool, shoddy or mungo is largely used in the manufacture of cheap broadcloths, finer cloths for ladies' capes and mantles, pilots, witneys, friezes, petershams, pea-jackets, and blankets. A considerable quantity is used in the form of flocks for beds. Felted cloth is extensively manufactured with it, and used for table-covers, carpets, druggets, and horse-cloths. From seventy to eighty millions of pounds weight of shoddy and extracts are used in a year in the woolen trade of this kingdom. The trade could not be carried on to its present extent without shoddy.—Mechanics' Magazine.

AND STILL THEY COME.—The following gentlemen have requested us to announce, in the face of the threats of the Union League leaders, that they have washed their hands of the iniquitous concern, and are determined to exercise their political rights as free white men, untrammeled by the yoke which the Radical oligarchs and conspirators, at Washington, are attempting to force upon the white people of the South:

W. J. Morrow, Sr., J. H. Cordell, D. I. Cordell, J. R. Powers, W. J. Morrow, Jr., A. Cordell, Jr., R. G. Bell, A. M. Jones.

We had a list of ten or twelve more, but mislaid it, and request the persons omitted to call on us or send them to us. We understand there is a list of twenty on its way from Haywood county.—Asheville News.

The Marion (S. C.) Star learns, on good authority, that one Middleton, a negro clergyman in that district, has written a letter to the military authorities, declaring, in substance, that "though it may be courage in them to say it, his word is law with the negroes in Marion District, and that he will die before he will pay the State tax."

"Wife," said a broker a few days since "do you think I shall ever be worth fifty thousand dollars?"

"Ain't I worth that to you?" said the confiding spouse.

"Yes," hesitatingly replied the other half, "but I can't put you out at interest."

"When Cotton is exported, it must be clearly identified as the same Cotton for which a permit was obtained. A permit does not, under any circumstances, authorize the export of an equal number of bales or pounds of other Cotton. A permit to remove Cotton, showing the payment of the tax, is sufficient to authorize exportation. Tax on Cotton removed from the producing districts will be collected from the Cotton itself, no matter in whose possession found.

Cotton intended for manufacture in the District where produced cannot be taxed until manufactured. Every person, or corporation, manufacturing Cotton for any purpose in the District where the Cotton is produced, must make return and pay tax."

THE ALABAMA CONVENTION.

MONTGOMERY, Nov. 30, P. M.

The Convention passed an ordinance to organize the volunteer militia of Alabama. It authorizes one company to every thousand voters—all the officers to be appointed by the Governor, and to be of known "loyalty."

A great many offices, with heavy emoluments, are provided; one Major General, three Brigadiers, an Adjutant, Quartermaster and Inspector General, Paymaster and Surgeon General—the whole to be under the command of the Governor.

The Conservatives declared that this measure places the State under a military dynasty similar to Brownlow's. The expenses will necessarily increase taxation.

An ordinance was passed, declaring the war debt of the State, and all liabilities created, directly or indirectly, in aid of the war, null and void.

An ordinance, reported by a Select Committee, was discussed till the hour for adjournment, providing for the extinguishment, between the citizens of this State, of all debts existing July 20th, 1865 on payment of installments, by note, of the original amount of the debt.

The session will continue through a part of the next week.

DAILY SENTINEL.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1867.

"IF WE KNEW."

If we knew the woe and heart ache
Waiting for us down the road,
If our lips could taste the worm-wood,
If our backs could feel the load:
Would we waste to-day in wishing
For a time that ne'er can be;
Would we wait in such impatience
For our ships to come from sea?

If we knew the baby fingers
Pressed against the window-pane,
Would be cold and stiff to-morrow—
Never trouble us again;
Would the bright eyes of our darling
Catch the frown upon our brow?
Would the print of rosy fingers
Vex us then as they do now?

Ah, those little ice-cold fingers,
How they point our memories back,
To the hasty words and actions
Strewn along our backward track!
How those little hands remind us,
As in snowy grace they lie,
Not to scatter thorns—but roses—
For our reaping bye-and-bye!

Strange we never prize the music
Till the sweet voiced bird is flown;
Strange that we should slight the violets
Till the lovely flowers are gone;
Strange that summer skies and sunshine
Never seem one-half so fair
As when winter's snowy pinions
Shake their white down in the air!

Lips from which the seal of silence
None but God can roll away,
Never blossomed in such beauty
As adorns the mouth to-day:
And sweet words that freight our memory
With their beautiful perfume,
Come to us in sweeter accents
Through the portals of the tomb.

Let us gather up the sunbeams
Lying all along our path;
Let us keep the wheat and roses,
Casting out the thorns and chaff;
Let us find our sweetest comfort
In the blessings of to-day:
With a patient hand removing
All the briars from our way.

THE TOY MANUFACTURE.

The toy manufacture of the United States is assuming a fixed and definite position, and one that is permanent in the industry of the country. Although at first it might seem that the employment of capital in the manufacture of articles for juvenile amusement would be a precarious and somewhat hazardous investment, yet facts assure us of the contrary; and we are informed that the inventor of the "return ball," which is simply a wooden ball with an elastic cord attached, has gathered many thousands of dollars from the proceeds of his venture, and other persons have reaped fortunes from equally simple inventions.

We recollect that, during our juvenile days, our "playthings" were few and often of a rude and clumsy manufacture. Our balls and batts were generally made by an obliging parent or our older brothers, as the idea of purchasing such things would have been preposterous. The same might be said of kites, hoops, sleighs, and the thousand and one things that we see so plentiful in the market at the present day. The only toys which seemed worthy of purchase were the clumsy and ill-made skates, of a cheap material; small wooden flies of foreign importation, Jews-harps at a penny apiece, and a now obsolete form of tin whistle. This latter toy was the delight of juvenile possessors. It consisted of two flanged pieces of tin plate soldered together, with a hole pierced through the center of each. This whistle, on being held between the lips, or rather placed in the mouth, and the breath forcibly ejected through the aperture, produced in our estimation the very essence of sonorous gratification. We used to imagine that the country tin-smith who manufactured those "staple" articles was, or must be, a little elevated above the ordinary mechanics of that period. We remember that in after years when improved articles, presented for the acceptance of whistling juveniles, had almost superseded our youthful pet, we were astonished to see an attempt made to revive its form, and adapt it to the purposes for which the steam-whistle is now employed. As might be anticipated, a failure in such application entailed a laugh of derision on the unfortunate mechanic. We beheld with interest the attempted resurrection of the defunct favorite of our juvenile existence, and we believe that it must have been the last of its kind ever made.

It is now no uncommon thing in different parts of our country to see large and magnificent manufactories, abundant capital, and much skilled labor, devoted to the manufacture of toys, and in all large cities we see merchants whose occupation is the purchase and sale of such articles, and who are ready to furnish all the amusing things possible for the rising generation of young America. It has been asserted in our hearing, by those who ought to know, that any patent obtained upon a toy was valuable, and any capital properly invested in such manufacture was remunerative. The truth of this assertion cannot now be doubted, and as a proof of it we now see, on the approach of the annual holidays, a variety collection of miscellaneous toys, some old and familiar, some new and striking, presented for public, and especially juvenile, acceptance. Not only is mechanical skill called in requisition to produce these articles of amusement, but chemistry and other sciences and arts are called upon to lend their assistance, and each contributes a share toward the amusements of the rising generation.

THE FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

This Portable, Self-Acting Fire Engine

IS OFFERED TO THE Public as a Ready; certain and speedy means of preventing LARGE CONFLAGRATIONS.
Until the invention of the Portable, Self-Acting Fire Engine,
Fires have been met by means too slow, too late and too cumbrous. But few persons in this country have the advantage of large hand or Steam Fire Engines, and those few often suffer a total loss of their property by reason of the great length of time consumed in sending for and getting them into working order.
BUT NOT SO WITH THE FIRE EXTINGUISHER, which being kept charged and standing in your House, Store or Factory, is always Ready for Instant Service.
The fire can be extinguished and your property saved without loss or damage, or even an alarm of Fire.
The first few minutes of conflagration decide the fate of the property; a little fire is quickly put out, which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench.
THE EXTINGUISHER, being very simple in its operation, and entirely self-propelling, requires no previous skill or practice to operate it, and being so light, portable and self-acting, is capable of being used in any place, by any person, male or female.
It puts out all fires, arising from whatever cause. You are saved from the immense water damage caused by large Engines.
You can effect insurance on your property
At Lower Rates,
if protected by the Extinguisher.
The Extinguisher is no humbug, as thousands of good men in Europe and America will testify.
I have already put these little Engines into some of our best Factories and largest Schools in N. C.
No House, Store, Factory or Corporation is safe without them.
The price is as nothing, compared with the protection they afford.
Send for a Circular.
